About Cleveland

General Moses Cleveland founded the City of Cleveland in 1796. The name changed to its current spelling in 1831 when the "a" was dropped in order to fit the city's name on a newspaper masthead. Originally a frontier village, Cleveland grew into a manufacturing and business center for northern Ohio. Today, the city is headquarters for both manufacturing and service industries, as well as a growing tourism and convention destination. It is the 16th largest metro area and 15th largest consumer market in the United States with 2.9 million residents in the Greater Cleveland metro and nearly 500,000 in the City of Cleveland, making it the 30th largest city in the country.

Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame and Museum - 1100 Rock and Roll Blvd, Cleveland, OH 44114

The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum opened its doors in 1995 on the shores of Lake Erie in downtown Cleveland, Ohio. Its mission is to educate visitors, fans and scholars from around the world about the history and continuing significance of rock and roll music. It carries out this mission through its operation of a world-class museum that collects, preserves, exhibits and interprets this art form and through its library and archives as well as its educational programs. Cleveland ranked first in a public poll conducted by USA Today asking where the Hall of Fame should be located. After much competition and many visits to potential sites by Foundation members, Cleveland is chosen as the permanent home for the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum in May of 1986. Following an extensive search throughout 1987, world-renowned architect I.M. Pei was chosen to design the Museum.

The Museum officially opened to the public on Saturday, September 2, which kicked off with a ceremony presenting the Ahmet M. Ertegun Exhibition Hall, the Museum's main exhibit space named in recognition of the founder of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. Since the Museum's opening, the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum has welcomed nearly eight million visitors from around the world and reaches more than 50,000 students and educators each year through its education programs on site and at great distances.

To prepare for your visit to the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, it is recommended you visit the Website at: <http://rockhall.com> and familiarize yourself with the exhibits and sections there are.
